SOUTH EAST

Guilford-based HFS Milbourne is to host an investment seminar in October with the Surrey Law Society, writes Charles Walmsley.

The seminar will form part of the society's continuing professional development (CPD) programme for lawyers in the region. The event's guest of honour is Seven Investment Management's head of corporate development Justin Urquhart Stewart, who will speak about markets and the economy.

HFS Milbourne has sponsored the Law Society's CPD programme since February 2013, offering support to lawyers dealing with family separation and personal finance cases.

Alongside Urquhart Stewart, the seminar will include a talk on modern portfolio management from Iain Halket, chair of HFS Milbourne's investment committee, and a pensions report from the firm's chartered financial planner

Edward Nice.

Rod Milne, joint managing director of HFS Milbourne, said: 'We do a lot of work with Surrey lawyers and quite a few London lawyers now in important and specialist areas, such as family law departments and private clients.

'They refer clients to us and we refer clients to them.'
